

Call for action

Tellus Magazine are looking for partners for October 16-17, 2007

On October 16-17, millions of people from all over the world will stand up against poverty. Last year more than 23 million people joined the manifestation, a new world record. And this year we will beat that record.

Tellus Magazine will create a platform to show the movements strength and message, a web based magazine where everyone committed for a better world get the opportunity to speak out, and get inspired by others from the entire world.

We want to work in the passage between theory and practice and show that we can make a better world. We want to give our readers inspiration and tools, put faces on the statistics, create better role models and much more.

Tellus Magazine is published by the not for profit organization Tellus Network, committed to spread the message of the Millennium Development Goals.

The magazine will be launched at the World Day for Eradication of Poverty and we're looking for partners all over the world to create the magazine. Our need:

- Material

We're looking for writers, photographers, bloggers, video makers and activists who are interested to produce material for the magazine. This is a unique opportunity to get your message out, interview interesting people and tell about your activities for a better world. Our goal is to get material from every country involved.

- Help to spread the message

We're asking for your help to spread the magazine during the event. Put a link to us at your websites and spread the web address in your newsletters and blogs. The address is <http://www.tellusmagazine.org>. In exchange we will create an information page about every partner organization at the magazine.
